METADATA, THE CLOUD AND IDENTIFY THEFT

CHRIS MEUSE

Sponsored by Texas Bank & Trust

Metadata. The Cloud. Identity Theft. These subjects and terms are a part of our modern life and lexicon, but what are they and how do they impact our practices and clients? This presentation intends to define these terms and highlight their import in today's practice. This includes: discovery of metadata; how metadata is used in litigation; ethical consideration surrounding metadata; uses of the cloud in the office and in litigation; security and HIPAA issues, regarding the cloud; effective use of the cloud with client relations; how identity theft is impacting clients today; and how identity theft and cyber security is impacting law practices today. Chris Meuse is a skilled litigation and collaborative family law attorney with KoonsFuller who has extensive experience handling custody and divorce suits, involving estates of all sizes. Chris' approach is to know each of his cases well enough to try, while working to reach agreements between the parties. "What I enjoy most about family law is that you have to continually work on creative solutions for each family you're helping. No two family law cases are alike, and laws have to be uniquely applied. I enjoy strongly advocating for my clients and taking the route that best meets their needs, so they can have the best possible outcome." Chris Meuse was born in Toledo, OH and graduated from Southlake Carroll High School in Southlake, TX. Chris graduated from the University of Oklahoma with a bachelor of arts in political science and a minor in Spanish. He has participated heavily in Habitat for Humanity and worked on two separate U.S. Congressional campaigns; one Oklahoma gubernatorial campaign; and an Oklahoma City mayoral campaign before attending law school. Chris graduated from the University of Oklahoma, College of Law, where he was Top 20% in his class and received multiple dean's list awards.

Continuing education credits approved for State Bar (including .50 ethics), CPA and CFP.
